

Program Coordinator, Berggruen Institute Beijing

What We Do:

The Berggruen Institute was established in 2010 and works across cultures, disciplines, and political boundaries, engaging leading thinkers to develop and promote long-term answers to the biggest challenges of the 21st Century. The Institute hosts reports and activities within four main research themes: Renovating Democracy, Universal Capital, Future Humans, The Planetary, and Antikythera. The Institute has three Centers located in Los Angeles, Beijing, and Venice.

Berggruen Institute Beijing (Berggruen Research Center at Peking University) is a hub for East-West, cross-cultural, and interdisciplinary research and dialogue on transformations affecting humanity. With a future oriented perspective, intellectual themes are focused on Frontier Science, Technology, and Philosophy; Creative Futures; and Ancient Wisdom and Planetary Governance. Established in 2018, The Berggruen Research Center at Peking University is located at the heart of Peking University campus. The Center engages with outstanding thinkers on its global platform to examine, share, and develop ideas to address planetary challenges in times of profound transformation.

About the Job:

You will be part of the China Center programs team. We hope you are passionate about what we do at the Institute. You will be working in tandem with other program coordinators, and you will report directly to the Chief Operations Officer. We are looking for someone with initiative, a team player, and who possesses a high degree of professionalism.

The position is based in Beijing.

Responsibilities:

- Work closely with the Center directors and fellows in designing and implementing research programs.
- Research and reach out to scholars and thinkers in the greater China and beyond and identify research topics which are of interest to the Center.
- Organize events related to the programs. Be proactive in designing topics and discussion formats as well as in all logistical arrangements, in collaboration with fellows and the Office Manager as well as keeping events' records up to date.
- Attend events organized by partner organizations related to the programs.
- Work closely with our media vendors in co-creating social media content, such as short videos and blog posts, to communicate our ideas, activities, and programs.
- Proofread articles, papers and social media content before publishing. Program coordinators should familiarize themselves with various academic language styles.

Qualifications:

- Experience in a role that required rigorous analytical problem-solving and complex stakeholder management.
- Good knowledge of the development of the Center's intellectual themes in China and awareness of global views on these topics.

B

- Excellent written and verbal communication and interpersonal skills.
- At least two years' work experience in related fields.
- Ability to speak and write in English and Chinese fluently.
- Tolerance for ambiguity and ability to work in a fast-changing environment.
- A Master's degree in related fields is an advantage.
- An inquisitive mind, a warm heart, and a passion for learning who loves working with people!

What the Center can offer:

- A competitive salary package depending on the applicant's experience.
- Opportunity to work closely with world-leading researchers and policy advisors in the field of artificial intelligence, biotechnology, and ethics, as well as on new governance strategies in the digital era.
- Opportunities to work across centers within the Berggruen Institute.

How to apply:

Please email resume and a cover letter to ChinaCenter@berggruen.org before March 3, 2025.

The Berggruen Institute is proud to be an equal opportunities workplace. We firmly believe employing a diverse workforce is important regardless of race, color, ancestry, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, marital status, disability, gender identity, or Veteran status. If you have a disability or special need that requires accommodation, please let us know. We make recruiting decisions based on your experience and skills.